Profile

Hello, my name is Giovanni and I have an academic background in Design with a degree in 2011. Subsequently intrigued by the digital world and the rise of web 2.0, after a couple of years as self-taught I obtained an official certificate in Web Programming in 2013. After a few years of experience between digital and communication agencies, I am now a Freelance Web Developer serving creative agencies both in Italy and abroad. During my professional experience, I got and kept part in all the development processes of the project, from its concept, development and publication. Today I have 7 years of experience in both FrontEnd and BackEnd web development with focus on WordPress development. Last but not least, I'm dedicating myself to the study and development of modern reactive Web Applications.
